V. THE ACADEMIC SYSTEM

The Academic System of Jagan Nath University, Jaipur has been designed such that it promotes realization of Founders' Vision of 'developing this University as a Centre of Excellence for higher education and research committed towards quality education, skill development, industry integration and holistic eco-system for global competencies among youth and sustainable development of the Nation'. The academic system focuses on providing education that helps learners acquiring professional skills through in-depth study of discipline specific courses as well as broad knowledge of the wider world. The basic objective is to provide students right type of education and preparing them to deal with challenges of modern organizations characterized by complexity, diversity and change in the new economy. The emphasis is on promoting interdisciplinary and multi-disciplinary perspectives of learning along with study in major subjects. The system is in full consonance with the UGC guidelines on Choice Based Credit System (CBCS) and New Education Policy (NEP), 2020 framework. The features of CBCS which include flexibility in the choice of courses and credits, continuous evaluation process, uniform grading system, and courses classification into core, electives, ability enhancement compulsory courses and skill development courses are in-built in the process. The salient features of NEP including multidisciplinary and holistic education approach, ethics and human values, extensive use of technology in education delivery, outstanding research, outcome based assessments, community services, etc. have also been incorporated in academic system. The CBCS provides for flexibility in designing curriculum with Mark to Market approach and assign credits based on course content and hours of teaching. It accelerates the teaching-learning process and enables vertical and horizontal mobility in learning. To enhance quality standards the system lays special emphasis on research, innovations, skill development, technology and human values in learning process. The four pillars that drive the university education at Jagan Nath University are quality education, skill development, holistic approach and industry integration. This academic system applies to all UG and PG programs offered by the University.

Programs

The University offers UG and PG programs in various disciplines.

Type of Courses

Courses in a program of study are classified into four categories i.e. Core, Electives, Ability Enhancement Compulsory Courses (AECC) and Skill Enhancement Courses (SEC).

1. Core Courses

These are the courses which are to be compulsorily studied by a student as a core requirement to complete the degree in a program of study. They are compulsory courses generally given in the beginning semester(s) to build up basic knowledge in any academic program. The weightage for this category is suggested to be 15-20 percent of the total degree credit requirements.

2. Elective Courses

Elective course is a course which can be chosen from a pool of subjects. It may be

- a. Supportive to the discipline of study
- b. Providing an expanded scope
- c. Enabling an exposure to some other discipline/domain
- d. Nurturing students proficiency/skills

They are the depth courses designed to achieve any/all of the above objectives in any degree Program. They help build expertise and skills in the degree domain area.

Further, elective courses may be divided into two categories i.e. Generic Centric/Open Elective and Discipline Centric/Specific Elective. 'Generic Elective' refers to those courses which add generic proficiency to the students and may be chosen from unrelated discipline. 'Discipline Centric' adds to subject expertise and are offered under the main discipline/subject of study.

The weightage for electives in degree Program is suggested to be 60 percent.

3. Ability Enhancement Compulsory Courses

AECC are based upon the content that leads to knowledge enhancement. For example, English Communication, Environment Studies, Disaster Management, Computer Application, Community Service, etc.

4. Skill Enhancement Courses

SEC courses provide value based and/or skill based knowledge and may have content both Theory and Lab/Training/Field Work. The main purpose of these courses is to provide students life skills and hands on skills so as to improve their employability. The weightage for category 3 & 4 above is suggested to be 20-25 percent of the total credits.

However, keeping in view the nature and specific requirements of any degree Program there may be some variations in the relative weightage with in the categories as suggested above.

The teachers frequently gave the illustrations and discussed the topics to acquaint the students with the practical insight of the subject. Efforts were made to develop use of library for research and study. Reading habits were encouraged through suitable assignments. The individual program streams had distinctly identified the mentors and allocated mentees based on a preliminary psychological test of the student's. The program was successful in shaping the personality of the students, resulting in 93.2 percent placement of final year students across all disciplines.

Feedback System: First Hand Improvement

At the end of each semester, the feedback was collected from students and detailed analysis of the feedback was carried out by IQAC and presented to the academic council. A feedback was also collected from teachers, alumni as well as from the parents. A detailed analysis of the feedback was carried out by IQAC and presented to the academic council. If the response regarding the performance of any teacher is not within expectation then authorities guided and encouraged concerned teacher for improvement in substance and technique. The feedback mechanism serves as a crucial platform to improve the infrastructural facilities, teaching - learning process and basic amenities in the University.

Examination System - Benchmarking Excellence

The cell organized mock interviews and group discussions in collaboration with corporate trainers to familiarize students with standard selection procedures. Different renowned organizations were invited to participate in the placement process.

The University has also maintained close linkage with industry and other organizations, so that students of various disciplines can visit their plants to get a direct insight into the multi-functional processes at these organizations. In-plant training is also organized as per the program curriculum.

This helps the faculty to familiarize themselves with industrial practices and share the same with the students in the form of case studies to make teaching-learning interesting. To have linkage with the industry, opportunities were provided to the teachers to 'work' with industry for short durations. Researchers were encouraged to work on practical problems faced by the industry that will be fruitful for both research and industry.

6.1 Report on Guest Lecture

Impact of Culture on Marketing Mix

Resource Person: Dr. M.S. Verma

Date: 23 February, 2023

Venue: C-003

Resource Person Profile:

Prof. M.S. Verma is emeritus professor, who was the first vice –chancellor of Jagannath University, Jaipur. He has been associated with Jagannath Gupta Memorial Trust for more than two decades.

He is a doctorate in management and has written many articles and papers that have been published in some of the renowned national and international journals and magazines. He has authored many books on management and has guided more than 100 Ph.D scholars.

Lecture Highlights:

Prof. Verma initiated the lecture by quoting Professionals err when thinking that, in today’s shrinking world, cultural differences are no longer significant. It’s a common mistake to assume that people think alike just because they dress alike; it’s also a mistake to assume that people think alike just because they are similar in their word choices in a business setting. Even in today’s global world, there are wide cultural differences, and these differences influence how people do business. Culture impacts many things in business, including –

- The pace of business;
- Business protocol—how to physically and verbally meet and interact;
- Decision making and negotiating;
- Managing employees and projects;
- Propensity for risk taking; and Marketing, sales, and distribution.

He concluded the session advising the students that it is critical to understand the history and politics of any country or region in which you work or with which you intend to deal. It is important to remember that each person considers his or her “sphere” or “world” the most important and that this attitude forms the basis of his or her individual perspective.

1. Krishi Upaj Mandi, Chaksu, Jaipur

The department of Agriculture has organized a visit to Krishi Upaj Mandi, Chaksu, Jaipur on 12/11/2022. A total of 65 students with faculty members has visited the mandi. Krishi Upaj Mandies are purely concerned to the agriculture occupation. Keeping this view in mind student have visited the same for gathering the information of 'Krishi Upaj Mandies'. This visit was fruitful for the students in different aspects i. e., how farmers bring their agriculture produces to the shop of the commission agent (arhtia) in regulated Agricultural Produce Marketing Committee (APMC), or mandi, yards for sale, what is the procedure of quality check and auction/ bid of the produce in open Mandi system. Student also learnt that there are no taxes levied and hence the mandi fee is out if sold outside. The buyer and seller can transact at a mutually agreed price. This is actually a win-win situation if it works well as there is no compulsion to sell outside the mandi and the farmer can choose the point of sale and the price.

IX. Institution Innovation Council (IIC)

Entrepreneurship Development (ED)

The major objective of this ED is to enhance and encourage the entrepreneurial spirit among the young students, and hence creating more job providers rather than job seekers. The Cell not only motivates the necessary knowledge and skill sets to help them to work as entrepreneurial manager rather than a simple traditional manager.

Since, its inception, the EDC before becoming the integral part of IIC was actively engaged in achieving its objectives through several ways like conducting entrepreneurial workshops, exercises, seminars, entrepreneur's talks and many more activities relating to entrepreneurship.
